We Invite You to Become a Security and Sustainability Forum

Promotion Partner

Cross promotion of events

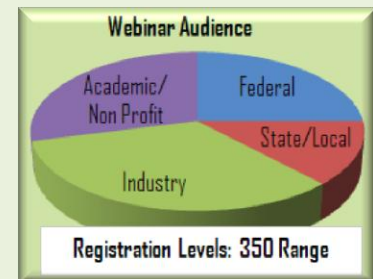

Consider partnering with the Security and Sustainability Forum to promote our events and we will do the same for your organization.

The Security and Sustainability Forum (SSF) is an educational organization, formed in 2009 that hosts free online seminars addressing existing and emerging threats to society and the environment from a changing climate.

Focus: In our 90 minute seminars panels of global experts explain the issues and discuss the policy, technology, collaboration and governance best practices and additional research needed to mitigate and adapt to global and local environmental threats.

Moderators and Panel Members: Global leaders and decision makers come from government, academia and industry. They tackle difficult questions that often lead to new ideas for solutions, and new applications for existing approaches to security and sustainability.

Reach: Through our trade and professional association partners and social media outlets, our promotions reach thousands of decision makers, educators and technical professionals. Several hundred professionals have registered for each webinar, split nearly equally between government, industry and academia/nonprofits.

Partner Program Details: SSF partners are organizations that promote our events to their memberships and subscription customers through emails, newsletters, social media and site links. In return, partners receive reciprocal promotion and visibility in our network and in our materials including:

- Logo and links from our site
- Event postings on our website events page and listing in our newsletters and emails
- Links and logos included in each live webinar session and in the recorded archives
- Ability to contribute technically through panel nominations and topic suggestions
- Exposure to over 400,000 professionals through SSF followers, partner organizations and public outreach
